MRS. ANCKER TO BE KNOWN AS DAUGHTER

Counsel in Spang Case Fix Her Legal Status.

A witness at the contest of the will of Mrs. Rosa E. Spang spoke yesterday of Mrs. Mabel Crome Ancker, the couestant, as "the adopted daughter of Mrs. Spang." As the case has been on trial for several weeks without any question having been raised about this point, Surrogate Cohalan insisted upon an immediate settlement of her relation-executors and proponents of Mrs. Spang's will, said the contestant was born several years before the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Spang, but that he had no intention of making an issue of It was finally agreed that the jury should disregard the discussion look upon Mrs. Ancker as the daughter of the testatrix without respect to whether her mother had or had no' eroken of her as an "adopted" child.

Under cross examination by Edgar T. Bracket', counsel for the contestant, Mrs. Elizabeth Gannen said she couldn't remember any of the "stories" Mrs. Spang had told well enough to recite She said they were amusing, but not risque, and that she considered Mrs. Spang ladylike and rational. The trial will be continued to-day,

If you vote YES, then the obviously wise thing to do is to BEGIN.

Take stock of your homes this evening.

See what you need now. Find out what you are going to need some time during the year. Then come to the Furniture Galleries tomorrow, and look over -the more than 100 dining-room suites from

$214.50 to $2,358.75 -the more than 75 bedroom suites from $124.25

-the hundreds of upholstered pieces, chairs, large and small tables, novelty furniture, and separate pieces for the bedroom and dining-room -EVERY PIECE of Wanamaker home furniture in the Furniture Galleries (with warehouse reserves).

All GOOD Furniture
